If life brings us happiness-It brings us, we are told, What's hard to buy, tho' rich one's try With all their heaps of gold! Then laugh away—let others say Whate er they will of mirth; Who laughs the most may truly boast He's got the wealth of earth!

There's beauty in a merry laugh, A moral beauty too; It shows the heart's an honest heart, That's paid each man his due; And lent a share of what's to spare Despite of wisdom's fears: And made the cheeks less sorrow speak;

The eyes weep fewer tears. The sun may shroud itself in cloud, The tempest-wrath begin; It finds a spark to cheer the dark, Its sunlight is within!

Then laugh away, let others say Whate'er they will of mirth; Who laughs the most may truly boast He's got the wealth of earth!

THE MAN OF TRUTH.

It requires stern integrity and high moral courage to withstand the temptations of worldly policy and selfishness. "To be honest, as the world goes, is to be one picked out of ten thousand." Our will must be conformed to the high principles of immutable justice, or personal integri-ty cannot be maintained. "He that walketh uprightly, walketh surely; but he that one square. perverteth his ways shall be known." All persons must encounter difficulties; to overcome them is the prerogative of the pure and just. They who enter the furnace in faithfulness to themselves and the highest virtue, shall not miss the form of the fourth in the flames, but shall come forth unharmed, as the Babylonish captives were delivered through the infinitely greater calamity of apostacy. For turning aside from the true and safe path, Jacob was chastened to the end of his days. Peter was openly rebuked. Judas and Ananias are left on record, beacons as frightful in their doom as they should be powerful to warn. Man in his best estate is weak, and needs to pray with David, "Let my heart be sound in thy statutes. that I may not be ashamed. I will walk in mine integrity; redeem me, and be merciful to me.'

Integrity is a lofty virtue, one that is a prime element in every trustworthy character. Says Solomon, A faithful witness will not lie; but a false witness will utter lies." A true man is moved neither by smiles nor frowns, neither pecuniary gain nor personal obloquy, to swerve from truth. He is actuated by the strictest law of verity, and therefore is the man of trust. "His words are bonds, his oaths are oracles: His love sincere, his thoughts immaculate; His tears pure messengers sent from his heart;

His heart as far from fraud as heaven from earth."

CONSUMPTION.

A modern writer, in an article relating to the frequency of this disease among us and its character, says:-

"If there be a disease in this world of ills, which seems in a peculiar manner to fit its victim, for the fate which human skill cannot avert, that disease is consumption. To one who is full of life, and hope, and joy, the conviction that it has fastened its death grasp upon him, the fearful certainty of its end will flash through him with a thrill of terror, more, doubtless, than that of most other diseases. Startling as it must be, indeed, to feel for the first time, that there is a worm gnawing at one's vitals, whose greedy teeth no human skill can stay-statling to feel the certainty of disease, whose end is surely death. But how soon does the spirit grow calm; and as he feels the disease tugging at his heart strings, and his strength wasting away before it, how calmly, then, does the soul plume itself for its upward flight-how trustingly, then, does it lean upon the bosom of its God!-and when flesh and heart grow faint, and fail, how sweetly sinks to its final rest, the victim of consumption.

"So fades a summer cloud away. So sinks the gale when storms are o'er So gently shuts the eye of day, So dies a wave along the shore."

MILK ROOMS IN CELLARS.

Farmers about to build a dwelling. hould know, that by carrying up a large flue in the chimney's back from the cellar, and having a window or two opening to the house, out of the cellar, they can have as good a milk room under their houses as could be made over a spring that may be perhaps two hundred yards or onefourth of a mile off, which is so unpleasant to go to in bad weather, especially by the female portion of the family.

The floor should be flagged with stone as they can be kept sweeter or colder than even cement or brick, which absorb "split milk," and thus taint the atmosphere. The walls and ceiling should be plastered to facilitate white-washing and cleaning. Nothing but milk and cream should be kept in the room, as a pure atmosphere for cream to rise in, is absolutely essential for the making of sweet butter.

What is needed to have a cool, sweet cellar is a current of air, which will be secured by the atoresaid flue and open windows, as a strong current of air is at leat ten degrees cooler than the same air can be done in any good churn in from ten to fifteen minutes, as well in winter as in summer, by having the temperature of the cream right, say fifty-eight or sixty degrees. The temperature of an ordinary sitting or living room in winter, to be comfortable, is sixty-eight degrees, and a closet opening into such a room would be the best place to keep the pot in winter. In summer, the cream can be readily reduced to the right temperature, by breaking up clean pieces of ice and putting it into the churn.

A thermometer, which is necessary to regulate these matters, costs but one dollar, and such an investment every farmer ought to make, who has churning to do, and thus save this much dreaded part of the duties of farmers wives and daughters much pleasanter and easier-for this I know they would thank your modest correspondent, if they knew him .- Lewis County Republican.

Dr. Rogers' COMPOUND SYRUP OF

Liverwort and Tar. THE HISTORY OF THIS MEDICINE s briefly told. It is prepared mostly from a Re-ripe furnished by the late distinguished Professor Rogers, after many years of investigation and research, and is the one employed by him in his own practice, and that occasioned his unparallel-led success in curing all complaints of the Throat and Lungs. For four years past, the proprietors have been putting up Dr. Rogers' Compound Syrup of Liverwort and Tar, in Cincinnati, Ohio. From this point, it has been distributed extensively over all the western and south western states. Hence the reason why so many of our Certificates are dated at Cincinnati, where the medicine is best known, and has been most fully tested. The first year, its sales amounted only to about 4,000 bottles; but such was its astonishing success in curing the complaints for which it is recommended, that it soon acquired an immense popularity, and the present year its sales will exceed 250,000 bottles. whole Union. Although it has never been advertised at all, or even offered for sale in New Engand, the proprietors have this day received an order from Bangor, Me. A few days since, they received one from Lowell, Mass -also one from Palmyra, N. Y., and another from Columbus, Geo. And it is because the demand for this medicine from abroad is so great that the proprietors cannot supply it from Cincinnati, that they have now entered into extensive arrangements for manufacturing the article in this city, deeming it their solemn and imperious duty to put within the reach of every member of community, a medicine which will not only break up the most dis-tressing Cough in a few hours' time, but which will really and radically cure the incipient stages of Consumption.

medicine has recently come under my observa-tion, not because I sought for it, but merely by accident, viz., in the case of the lady of the Rev. H. Wiseman, whose family physician I have been for twelve years, during the whole of which time Mrs. Wiseman has been in feeble health, and under medical treatment, the main difficulty in her case being weak and diseased Lungs. Her cough gradually grew worse, and early in the spring of 1845, her situation became alarming. I attended her carefully, and employed all the known remedies of Therapeutics, which only gave partial relief. Mrs. Wiseman had become emaciated and worn down, all the symptoms of pulmonary con-sumption appearing present. I was compelled at this period to leave on business, and Mr. Wiseman this period to feave on business, and Mr. Wiseman wished me to obtain a bottle of the Balasm of Wild Cherry, thinking it might palliate her symptoms during my absence. But when in Gallipolis, before I had fulfilled my commission, I accidentally cast my eye upon a notice of Dr. Rogers' Liverwort and Tar, and it occurred to me that if

The Seventh Volume will communes Jan. 1, 1861. RATEFUL for the encouragement he has thus far received, and confidently anticipate ing a large increase of subscriptions for the com-ing year, the Proprietor takes pleasure in announcng that the next volume of the Cultivator will be much improved in appearance, as well as in the character of its contents; while in price and general form it will remain unchanged, and be issued twice a month, as heretofote. The size of the paper will be somewhat increased, and it will be printed with new and beautiful type in the best style of the art-so that in its dress and appearance, the Ohio Cultivator will compare favorably with any of its Eastern cotemporaries.

In addition to the increased experience of the Editor, and a greater number of talented correspondents, it is his intention shortly to employ an able assistant to act as TRAVELING EDITOR, who will spend most of his time in visiting the readers of the paper at their farms and firesides, and writing notes of his observations, with practical hints and suggestions, for the columns of the paper. This arrangement, together with the fair that all the articles for its pages are written or cirlected with special reference to the wants and colcumstances, as to soil, climate, &c., of the peo-ple of OHIO and adjoining States, cannot fail to make this paper of greater practical value to them than any other periodical of the kind.

"OUR OWN OHIO." Will ever be entitled to our first regard; and most heartily do we rejoice to know that our labors thus tar in her behalf have been instrumental in awakening a spirit of improvement among her farmers, which is already producing highly beneficial re-sults. Our Giant State, with her boundless natu-ral resources, and over two millions of inhabit-ants, is beginning to awake to the sense of her high destiny. As evidence of this, we refer to the rapid progress of Railroads and other public improvements—to the Fifty Agricultural Societies organized within the past five years, and espe-cially to the magnificent STATE FAIR, which may justly be regarded as the commencement of new era in the progress of Agriculture in Ohio. We appeal then with confidence to the friends improvement in Ohio, to HELP ON THE WORK—by inducing as many as possible of your friends and neighbors to join with you in subscribing for the OHIO CULTIVATOR This will be sure to increase the number and usefulness of the County Agricultural Societies, and also awaken more interest in behalf of

ANOTHER AND BETTER STATE FAIR,
Which will undoubledly take place another year.
Should the increase of subscribers be sufficient to warrant the expense, it is the intention of the Editor to spend a month or two in England the Nor is the demand for it confined to the west-ern states. Its reputation is spreading over the age THE WORLD'S INDUSTRIAL FAIR. and write extended notes for the benefit of his readers at home; also to take a survey of the progress of agricultural improvements in that country since his visit there ten years ago. Should he not be able to go himself, the readers may rely on finding in the pages of the Cultivator, extensive notes on the World's Fair, from the pen of a del-egate from Ohio, and from other reliable sources. A large portion of our columns will continue to be devoted to Agriculture and Horticulture, in their practical details, and as much of science and theory relating to these arts as is consistent for a work of this kind. Notice will be taken of new discoveries and inventions, carefully distinguishing between those of established utility, and those of doubtful character, and especially avoiding or exposing the numerous species of the genus hum-bug, which are becoming a sore pest to farmers. The "Ladies Department" of the paper, will, as heretofore, be especially devoted to the interests of female readers; and with the aid of the new Editress, and several talented con there can be no doubt that it will be found interest ing and useful. The state of the Markets will be carefully nonticed in each number, and such information given as may be thought most useful to farmera in helping them to decide when and where to dispose of their surplus productions, &c. (This information alone, has often been found of more value than many times the cost of the paper for a year.)

A TTACHMENT. - At my instance an attachment was this day issued by Thomas Martin, Eaq., a Justice of the Peace within and for the any medicine would secure the object proposed, this would do it. I bought a bottle, and sent it to the lady, and after several days' absence, to my astonishment, she declared herself almost well.
